

The Career Resource Centre's “Best Picks”

Unsure About How to Search for Jobs?

Here are some books that can help:

Get Wired, You're Hired

By: Mark Swartz

As it can be very overwhelming to begin the job search, this book is an excellent guide to finding the right jobs online. This book explores many different topics that are not usually thought of including how to get your resumé picked up by Applicant Tracking Software. This is a great guide to get thinking about how to best use the technology available to find your perfect job!

Section: Job Search/Networking

Get the Right Job Right Now!

By: Alan Kearns

This guide tackles the many questions on new graduates' minds: "What is the right job for me?", "How do I find that perfect job?" and "What kind of resumé is the best?" In addition, it addresses how to respond to difficult interview questions and how to negotiate salary. This is a great starting guide to figuring out where to focus your job search efforts and provides tips from real people who have experienced the challenges of the job hunt and are now successfully out in the work force.

Section: Job Search/Networking

Job Search Magic

By: Susan Britton Whitcomb

This book, written by a professional career coach, puts together all of the leading information on job search strategies. It gives all the insider secrets to landing your dream job by explaining the day-to-day challenges and how to nail the resumé writing and interview process. Filled with real examples, this book breaks down the different parts of the job search that are sometimes overwhelming.

Login to Navigator to search the full listings: www.wlu.ca/career

LAURIER
Career Development Centre